COMMUNITY RESEARCH ASSISTANT

Give back to the community and hone your research skills by participating in the Community Research Assistant Program at the Collaborative. Research projects deal with topics such as:

- Measuring the impact of nonprofits
- Client Choice Food Pantries
- Permanent, supportive housing for the chronically homeless
- Impact of domestic violence on homelessness

Work on the issues you care about while developing a product our non-profit community partners can use. Projects can include writing policy briefs, white papers, or reports. If you are a community focused and independent student interested in research, apply today!

The program is 2 credits, requiring approximately 70 hours of research and service over the course of the semester.
